NEW FIELDS FOR NOVELISTS.

Why Does Not Some Writer Use an Eskimo as Heroine?

The division of the earth among contemporary novelists has not as yet included Greenland, where some new writer can lay the scene of a story in which the heroine will wear sealskin trousers and calm her troubled heart with mighty draughts of train oil.

Neither has any novelist seized upon

China, where great things may yet be done by a story teller who really knows something of that modern and multitudinous sphinx, the Chinaman.

But with these exceptions there is very little desirable territory which is not pre-empted. This of course greatly hampers new novelists who are compelled to write novels dealing only with English men and women at home.

England is the common possession of everybody, and even the American writer who does not wish to imitate either Mr.

Harte or Mr. Howells is compelled to lay the scene of his "stories" in London

or in some one of the many little English colonies to be found in continental cities.

The English novelist who wishes to write a story characterized by some little novelty is reduced to inventing Dodos or other fabulous creatures, an attempt which fails more frequently than it succeeds.

This state of things is so plain to every writer that I wonder that no one has rushed in to occupy the Greenland or the Chinese field.

A Greenland story would at once attract attention because of its novelty,

and we who have never been to Greenland could warmly recognize the truth of its local color, and the profound knowledge of Eskimo character shown by the writer.

An advanced Eskimo maiden with a wild desire to wear pottions instead of trousers and to drink tea instead of train oil could hardly fail to charm the reader.

I am afraid, however, that the advanced Eskimo maid would not survive

beyond the first four or five chapters,

for I understand that whenever an English woman exhibits symptoms of advanced thinking she is immediately set adrift on an ice floe—W. L. Alden in Liber.

BATHING IN THE DEAD SEA.

An Easy Matter to Float on the Surface of the Thick Water.

The Dead sea, or more properly the Salt sea, is also called in Scripture the sea of the Arabah; in the Apocrypha, the Sodomish sea; in the Talmudical books, sea of Salt and sea of Sodom. The name Dead sea seems to have been first used in Greek, and the Arabic name is Bar Lut, or the sea of Lot. It has a length varying from 40 to 46 miles and is only about three miles across at its broadest part.

From the analysis of the United States

expedition it appears that each gallon of the water, weighing 12 1/2 pounds, contains nearly 3 1/2 pounds (3.819) of matter in solution, an immense quantity

in view of the fact that sea water, weighing 10 1/2 pounds per gallon, contains less than one-half pound. Of this

3 1/2 pounds nearly a pound is common salt (chloride of sodium), about two pounds chloride of magnesium and less than one-half pound chloride of calcium (muriate of lime). There does not appear to be anything about it inimical to life, and the story of a recent tourist confirms this. He says:

"As for the Dead sea, it will, in contrastition of the name, forever preserve

a green and living memory in my mind.

No fish can survive in it, we all know,

but for a place for a swim, or above all,

for a float, commend me to it beyond all the Winnipeg lakes in the world. How it bears you up in arms! How it annihilates the enormous ponderosity and dignity of the laws of gravitation! How it introduces you into the inner consciousness of deity and thistledom and all other airy, airy creatures! There more you weigh the less you weigh. There is the great hydrostatic paradox. An elephant in the Dead sea would feel himself a gnat. Then what a mirror its steely surface was that morning, and how beautiful its reflections of the mountains of Palestine on the one hand and of Meab on the other!"—Brooklyn

Eagle.

Electric Lights.

A Vienna professor gives it as his opinion, after much research on the subject, that all delicate persons and those who suffer from nervousness should never remain long in a room lighted by electric lights, its effect on the nervous system being such that after awhile they generally become uneasy

and depressed and find it impossible to concentrate the attention for any length of time. Young persons, on the contrary, and those with strong nerves

benefit from the influence of the light extremely beneficial, especially when the brain is overworked and tired, the effect being much the same as that of strong coffee

—i. e., increased activity of the nervous system.

places," said Jimmie, the ex-office boy.

kin smoke a cigarette and whistle at

A communication from Senator Stewart relative to the Nicaragua canal appears in the JOURNAL. The Senator wanted the United States Government to build and own the canal instead of going into partnership with a private corporation and assuming all the responsibility of doing the work and paying all the expenses. Every Populist paper and very many of the independent papers in the United States opposed the Senate bill. Senator Stewart offered an amendment to the bill authorizing the President of the United States to contract with the Government of Nicaragua and Costa Rica for a right of way for a canal between the Atlantic and Pacific on the route proposed by the Maritima Canal Company and to agree on behalf of the United States that the canal should be constructed and put in operation within ten years. The amendment also authorized the President of the United States to negotiate with the Maritima Canal Company for the purchase of all its rights, but it provided that not more than $7,000,000 should be paid for those rights. The Canal Company objected to the amendment because the original bill virtually gave the company $30,000,000 and the amendment was defeated.

The original passed by a vote of 31 to 21. Thirty-three Senators did not vote. Among those whose votes are recorded against the bill are Allen, Cockrell, Kyle, Pettigrew, Palmer and Wolcott, proving conclusively that the Senators of independent proclivities were opposed to the measure.

It is probable that not one in fifty of those who criticized adversely the action of Senators who opposed the Nicaragua canal bill know that it was a gigantic swindle. The concession from the Nicaragua Government to the canal company reserved the right to that Government to prevent American war vessels passing through the canal. The bill made the United States a partner in a private corporation and pledged the United States to pay all the expenses of building and equipping the canal, while under the concession from the Nicaragua and Costa Rica Governments a war vessel of the United States could be prohibited from going through the canal by those Governments. The company was authorized to issue $30,000,000 of canal bonds, but was not obligated to spend a dollar of the money in constructing the canal, the United States agreeing to do all the work and pledging the faith of the Government to redeem the bonds. That is the scheme persons who assume to be political leaders find fault with Senators Allen, Stewart and many others for opposing.

The Stewart substitute to the bill authorized the President to negotiate with the Governments of Central America for a right of way for a ship canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and with the present canal company for the purchase of all its rights at a price not exceeding $7,000,000. It provided that when those rights were acquired the Secretary of War, through the corps of engineers of the War Department, should build and equip the canal and make the necessary improvements in the harbors for ingress to the canal from the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The original bill provided that the United States should take stock in a private corporation, bear all the expenses and own seven-tenths of the stock. The substitute provided that the United States should own all the stock and that the canal should be built under the supervision of the War Department. Senators who voted for the original bill are commended, while those who advocated the adoption of the substitute are denounced by persons who evidently have not taken the trouble to inquire into the merits of either proposition. That there has been a powerful lobby in Washington in the interest of the original bill there is no doubt, but it is not probable that the canal company engaged any politicians in Nevada to further their interests, therefore the presumption is that those who are condemning the action of the Senators who opposed the original bill are actuated more by prejudice or ignorance than by the canal company's coin.

TO PREVENT BLACKLISTING.

Last Summer, after the strike, men who applied to be reinstated on the Central Pacific railroad were informed by the General Superintendent that if they desired to work on a railroad they would have to go east of the Missouri to get employment. Men who participated in or sympathized with the strike were blacklisted and as many of them were unaccustomed to agricultural or mining pursuits they were actually debarred from earning a living by their labor. To prevent this Mr. Wieland of Elko introduced a bill which reads as follows:

Any person, association, company or corporation within this State, or agent or officer in behalf of such person, association, company or corporation who shall hereafter willfully do anything intended to prevent any person who shall have for any cause, left or been discharged from his or its employment from obtaining employment elsewhere in this State shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars for each such offense or imprisonment in the county jail at the rate of one day for each two dollars of such fine.

This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

If this bill becomes a law it will prevent corporations from ostracizing men who may have been discharged from their service, whether those men be train men, yard men, mechanics, or members of the Legislature.

A MERCENARY COMBINATION.

Senator Summerfield sheds some light on legislative matters. Referring to the vote in the Assembly on the bill to divide Washoe county he says the true vote was 17 for to 13 against the measure. The 17 consist of nine Republicans and eight Silver men, who comprise "a mercenary combination in the Assembly, the formation of which is generally deprecated by honorable men of all parties." This statement of Senator Summerfield accounts for things which heretofore seemed unaccountable. The "mercenary combination" comprises a majority of the Assembly, and of course does what it pleases in that body. The Senator says it is non-partisan and the fact that it is composed of about even numbers of Republicans and Silver men indicates that, unlike the sageapat of the Publishing Company, who says there are only ten Republicans in the Assembly when the record shows that there are twelve, he knows what he is talking about.

THE FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Adjourns sine die—The Clocks Turned Back Several Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—At 4:30 a. m. the Senate took a recess until 9 o'clock. At 9:10, when Senate proceedings were resumed, the Vice President announced his signature to the Naval Appropriation bill. At 9:45 the Vice President announced his signature to the Deficiency bill. This was the last of the Appropriation bills and all the great measures for carrying on of the government were either at the Executive Mansion or on their way there.

At 10:15 Vorhees offered a resolution which was adopted, for the appointment of a joint committee of the two Houses to wait upon the President and inform him that Congress was ready to adjourn. The Vice President named Vorhees and Sherman as the Senators members of the committee.

Gray, Democrat of Delaware, asked unanimous consent to take up the bill already passed by the House concerning Behring Sea regulations, which he said were essential to the preservation of the fur seals.

Morgan, Democrat of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, objected. This ended the chances of the bill.

Morgan brought the question up again on a resolution for an investigation of the claims made by the Canadian sealers. Morgan made a pointed statement of the injustice and extravagance of British demands. He said the President and Secretary of State had urged $25,000, although the claim was unjustifiable.

Gray pressed his objection and the resolution was laid on the table.

Morrill presented a resolution thanking the Vice President for his ability, dignity and impartiality. It was unanimously adopted.

At 11:30 Call was again to the front with his lottery investigation, declaring vehemently that Gorman was seeking to suppress the injury desired by the religious element of the community. He demanded a yeas and nays vote on the taking up of the resolution.

To the surprise of everyone, including Call, the resolution was taken up, 36 to 18. For a moment it was believed the resolution was adopted and the presiding officer so announced. The final vote was interrupted by other pressing business. Call vehemently insisted on a final vote on his Florida resolution.

Alrich declared that a special committee, if appointed, would be for a political purpose alone. He moved an amendment that the Committee on Judiciary make the investigation.

Call evidently denounced the statement of Alrich concerning the political purposes of the inquiry. At this moment Vorhees and Sherman of the Senate Committee to wait on the President appeared and announced that the President had no further communication to make. The Vice President announced Cockrell, Davis, Daniel, Gordon, Quay and Sherman of the Senatorial members of the committee to take part in the dedication of the Chickamauga National Park.

The Vice President rose at 11:58 and briefly expressed his thanks to the Senate for the courtesy shown to him and to the officers of the Senate for their fidelity. Then he brought his gavel down sharply and declared the session at an end.

At 8 o'clock this morning, when the House reconvened after a four hours recess, there were exactly 11 members on the floor. The Speaker was at his post. Grosvener of Ohio caused the first flurry by a sharp speech, contending that the Republicans were the true friends of bimetalism. The repeal of the Sherman Act two years ago, he said, had accomplished more than any other influence to bring about the hopeful condition of silver we now observe the world over. Grosvener's speech created a stir among the silver men, and all rushed forward and appealed for recognition.

Bryan of Nebraska managed to get the floor and indignantly resented the reflection made by Pence yesterday upon the silver men who favored this conference. He was for free silver, but he believed it the height of folly for the United States not to join hands with other countries of the world if they are ready and willing to join in a scheme for the remonetization of silver. Dingley of Maine agreed with Grosvener.

venor. Contending that a single mint of any country, the United States, France or Germany, to open its mints to the free coinage of silver would swamp it and place it immediately on a silver basis.

Walker (Rep.) of Massachusetts, Wagner (Rep.) of Pennsylvania and Simpson (Pop.) of Kansas crowded in a few words before the debate was cut off and Simpson made the point of no quorum, when a recess was moved till 11, and was taken.

At 11, when the House reconvened, a committee consisting of Catchings, Outwaite and Reed was appointed to join a similar committee from the Senate and inform the President that Congress was ready to adjourn.

Another recess of fifteen minutes was taken, after which the committee appointed to wait on the President reported that the President had no further communication to make.

Cannon in a graceful speech offered a resolution of thanks to the Speaker, which was adopted.

A great burst of applause greeted the presentation of Cannon's resolution.

Wilson of West Virginia responded to the resolution on behalf of the Democratic members of the House.

Simpson spoke for the Populists. A rising vote on the resolution was taken, every member rising except Reed and Dingley.

Speaker Crisp ascended the rostrum amid deafening applause and made an appropriate speech thanking the members for their kindness, courtesy and consideration toward him.

The Speaker then announced the appointment of Culberson, Democrat of Texas, Hitt, Republican of Illinois and himself, under the resolution adopted last night, as members of the Monetary Commission. The Speaker then, at noon, declared the session adjourned sine die.

Both Houses had been in continuous session since Saturday morning though the House to wait upon the President and inform him that Congress was ready to adjourn. In carrying out this legislative fiction the clocks of both Houses were repeatedly turned back.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Senator Stewart Explains Some of the Provisions of the Senate Bill.

WASHINGTON February 25, 1895.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—I observe some criticism in Nevada with regard to my action on the Nicaragua Canal Bill. I am as much in favor of the Nicaragua Canal as any one of my constituents. The bill which passed the Senate without opposition from me, but without my support, was very objectionable. The concession of the Nicaragua Government to the Canal company is for only 99 years. It is trammelled with many restrictions. The company is a private corporation over which Nicaragua has complete jurisdiction. It is true that the Government of the U. S. by putting up all the money, has a majority of the Directors, but there is nothing in the bill to prevent construction companies robbing the stockholders. I feared a great scandal if the bill should pass being aware, however, that the public at large do not understand the defects of the bill, and being also aware of the fact that the bill will not become a law, I did not speak against it, but for fear of damaging the project I was willing that the bill should pass and receive all the votes it could as a general declaration in favor of the canal.

I, however, prepared a proper bill, as I think, and offered it as a substitute. If my bill had been put forward, I believe it would have become a law long ago. I believe the American people are in favor of the canal, and that they are in favor of its being built and owned by the Government as any other public work. In Arthur's administration a treaty was made which granted all the rights and privileges named in my substitute, but Mr. Cleveland came in before action was taken on it by the Senate, and withdrew it from the consideration of the Senate. I do not believe the American people want the Nicaragua canal built with the money of the Government, to be controlled by a private corporation under the jurisdiction of the Nicaraguan Government without authority in the United States to protect the interests of the people. If my critics will examine the concession to the Nicaraguan canal company and see what disadvantages the Government would be under in becoming a stockholder in that corporation, they will be better prepared to judge of the merits of the transaction.

I believe that the American people are in favor of the Nicaragua canal if it can be built and owned by the Government of the United States, and not otherwise. Herewith enclosed I send you a copy of my substitute. I have only one objection to the substitute, and that is the provision for the issuance of bonds. I prefer that it should be all done by direct appropriations, but as there was a bond provision in the original bill, I followed that example. When I offered the proposition there was a general expression of opinion among the Senate that it was the right thing to do. Some Senators refrained from voting, however, because they did not want to vote for bonds under any circumstances, but the friends of the measure wanted to pass something through the Senate which would encourage the enterprise. The bill was voted for that purpose rather than with any expectation that it would become a law. Whenever the friends of the Nicaragua canal will insist upon proper legislation to have it built and owned by the Government, they will succeed in accomplishing their object. But the manifest objections to a private corporation controlled and regulated by the Nicaraguan Government will defeat any bill of the character of the one which passed the Senate. Yours, Respectfully, WM. M. STEWART.

A NIGHT AT THE CIRCUS.

Jollie Nellie McHenry to Appear in a Great Production.

"A Night at the Circus" with jolly Nellie McHenry, whom everybody knows and admires as Electra, the dashing circus rider, and Madeline Milan, a demure Quakeress, twin sisters, will be the attraction at the Opera House next Saturday evening. New music, new specialties and an all round clever company is promised. For Miss McHenry no recommendation is needed, all know her as the cleverest, brightest and jolliest soubrette now before the American public. The novelty of "A Night at the Circus" is the last act which represents the "dressing tent" of the Great Imperial circus with a view of the ring and the audience at the back. In this act Miss McHenry appears as the queen of the arena in full circus rider's costume on the back of a beautiful white horse.

ASSEMBLY.

Called to order at 10 A. M., Speaker Allen presiding.

Roll called and prayer by the Chaplain.

The roll call showed 22 present and eight absent.

McDonald said there was no excuse for so many absentees. All knew of the one hour earlier time agreed upon at last meeting, and those who left for outside localities knew when they could arrive by train this morning. He was for not excusing any.

Some members present wished to be excused for a time on one pretext or another, the Assembly evidently not being ready for business, the one hour earlier being an hour too early.

Allen of Eureka objected to any further excusing of members. At this rate there would soon be none left but the Speaker. He considered the one hour earlier no improvement, even our worthy Sergeant-at-Arms not being present.

Noel moved a call of the House. Carried, and doors closed.

McNaughten, Hitt, Flannigan, Constant, Beck, Hogan and the Sergeant-at-Arms subsequently appeared at the bar of the Assembly. Most of their excuses for tardiness were on the ground of not being able to arrive sooner.

On motion each were fined $1 except Hogan, who was raised two bits on account of the lameness of his excuse.

Allen moved that all fines then collected be donated to the Orphans' Home Fund. Carried.

At 10:40, on motion of Wieland, further proceedings under call of the House were dispensed with.

The Journal was now read and this completed the whiling of the happy earlier hour away.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

S. J. R., amending the State constitution so as to tax patented mines. Judiciary.

Hogan moved that the vote by which substitute for A. B. No. 81, the Washoe-Ormsby Storey boundary bill, passed on Saturday be reconsidered.

Hogan proceeded to address the Assembly on the general merits of the bill, its injustice to Washoe county, etc. He spoke for nearly an hour, making an earnest appeal for reconsideration of the action of the House by reconsideration of the vote and the subsequent postponement of the bill indefinitely.

McDonald explained why he had supported the bill in the past and why he would oppose the reconsideration of the vote.

Allen of Eureka, and Francis spoke in favor of reconsideration and Crisler opposed it.

After considerable more discussion the further consideration of the subject matter was made special order for 7 o'clock this evening.

At 12:15 recess was taken until 1 P. M., that being the hour appointed for the House to visit the Carson High School.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 1 P. M. there were only 19 members present and after fifteen minutes delay recess was taken until 3 o'clock and the members present proceeded in a body to visit the Carson High School in accordance with the resolution adopted on Saturday.

At 3 P. M. the Assembly resumed regular business, twenty-eight members being present.

A Good Man Laid at Rest.

Daniel Harkins, an old resident and respected citizen of Winnemucca, died at that place last Saturday. A widow, a sister and other relatives mourn his loss. The body was brought here by express yesterday and taken charge of by undertaker Hoskins. The funeral took place from the Catholic Church, Rev. Father Kiely conducting the services. Several relations and friends of the deceased from Humboldt county and from Wadsworth attended the funeral and the pall bearers were former residents of Winnemucca now living in Reno. The interment took place in the Catholic cemetery where the mortal remains of the kind-hearted honest Daniel Harkins were laid at rest.

Mrs. Helman and Mr. B. N. Curtis were the lucky winners of the first prizes, while Mrs. Dr. McIntire and Mr. Helman carried off the "booby" prizes.

With delicious refreshments and sweet strains of music midnight came too soon.

THE POLANDIZING BILL.

Senator Summerfield Tells Tooty Wooty Braggy It is not a Party Measure.

The vote in the Assembly on the bill to Polandize Washoe county stood 19 for to 11 against the measure. As Allen of Eureka and Dr. Hogan of this county voted for the bill for the purpose of reconsidering the vote, the vote in favor of the bill was 17 to 13 against it. As eight or nine of the eleven Republicans in the Assembly voted for the bill, the JOURNAL remarked that "the bill seems to be a Republican measure."

Senator Summerfield says it is not, and adds "that it has never been a party measure in any sense of the word, but on the contrary is nothing more nor less than the nest egg of a mercenary combination in the Assembly, the formation of which is being generally deprecated by honorable men of all political parties in the State and by all friends of just legislation." This "mercenary combination" then, according to Senator Summerfield is composed of nine Republicans and eight Silver men, the number who voted for the bill to divide Washoe county.

DINNERS IN FRISCO.

CURIOUS COSMOPOLITAN RESTAURANTS ON THE COAST.
One May Dine in the Manner of a Different Country Every Night in the Week.
A Dirty Italian Restaurant on the Water Front That Is Very Popular.
One of the features of cosmopolitan San Francisco is its restaurants. Every foreign colony boasts of a place where its native cooking can be had, and adventurous San Franciscans who care to look these places up can dine in the manner of a different country every night in the week. If an elaborate Chinese dinner, with its numberless impossible courses, each accompanied by sweetmeats, proves unattractive, a Hawaiian dinner, with poi and salted fish, can be had by walking a few blocks. For those who like highly spiced dinners there are the Italian and Spanish restaurants to choose from, and for those with small appetites, who look for novelty in service, there are the Turkish restaurants, with their unpronounceable dishes and delicious coffee.
The most popular of the foreign restaurants are the Italian. There are several of these scattered about the Latin quarter, which are much frequented by San Franciscans on account of the excellence of the cooking. Most of them are dirty, very dirty, as to floors and walls, and the Italians are not over-zealous regarding the table linen. When a party of Americans enter, however, there is a general shuffle among the waiters to secure the service of the table and the prospective tip. The question of precedence being settled, the wine stained tablecloth is whisked off and replaced by one not always newly laundered or else suspiciously damp.
These restaurants are rarely on the main streets and have to be approached through dark alleys. One situated behind the county jail occupies the back room of a small Italian grocery store. In going there one is reminded of dark deeds and sharp stiletos, but the dinner is worth the journey. The chef of this place is famous for cooking "Italiani," a paste made by himself and cut in strips and cooked with a sauce made of tomatoes, spices and mushrooms. It is extremely rich and very peppery, but all Italian dishes are strongly dashed with chili peppers.
The dinner is attended with great ceremony. A bottle of their sour claret is served with each dinner. Every Italian drinks about two quarts of it with his dinner, so the bottle supply sometimes runs short. In this event the waiter goes to the bar, fills an empty bottle from a demijohn, drives in a cork, and then carries the bottle to the table where it is needed, sometimes four feet from the bar, and impressively producing his corkscrew draws the cork as carefully as though he were handling the finest burgundy. His demeanor is so serious throughout the performance that one dare not look amused.
A very popular restaurant is Bazzaro's, which is situated near the water front. This is greatly patronized by the Italian fishermen, who file in after their day's work, still wearing their gum boots and smelling strongly of their craft. It is also frequented by the Italian vegetable gardeners, who drive in from the outskirts of town, and after disposing of their stock stop to dine. When the place is reasonably well filled, there is a babel of voices. They are all talking at once, and out of the confusion the word "sondi" is distinguished above all others.
This means money, which the proprietor says, with a shrug, "they talk about all the time, all the time." The fishermen bring the best of their day's catch here, and the gardeners offer their choicest vegetables. The chef, whose kitchen is back of the dining tables and in full view of the room, is a merry fellow, and between his juggling feats, tossing his pan into the air to turn the cooking fish or meat exchanges gossip and jests with the diners. This place is kept comparatively clean. The floor is covered with sawdust and the ceiling festooned with gaudy colored paper out in fanciful designs. Two parrots add to the general din, and all sorts and conditions of cats prowl around the floor.
The restaurant is conducted by two brothers, one of whom waits on table, while the other attends bar and looks after the cash receipts. Every Italian after dining stops at the bar for a chat and a drink. Instead of a liquor, the host pours generous glasses of claret for himself and his guests, and these are speedily tossed off. A casual visitor, after witnessing this ceremony about 25 times in quick succession, is apt to grow nervous about the health of the host, but he appears none the worse for his conviviality at the end of the evening. The younger brother sometimes relieves his brother at the bar. He is quite as hospitable, and his invariable drink being absinthe and seltzer his case seems even more alarming.
This restaurant, at 7:30 in the evening, when dinner is in full swing, presents an odd sight, the Italians sitting around the tables, most of them with their hats on, gesticulating and talking excitedly across the room, while they roll the spaghetti round their forks and dexterously transfer it in yard lengths to their mouths. A butcher, with all the marks of his trade about him, occupies a table with the policeman on the beat, who gets the best service of all; a few men about town, who have heard of the chef's fame, and forget the unsavory looking company in their enjoyment of the plates, and often a table or two taken by young society girls with their chaperon and escorts. The girls consider a dinner at Bazzaro's a tremendous lark.
The Americans do not venture on the claret so generously served with the dinner. A flask of Chianti is ordered in its stead, and the proprietor always proffers the empty flask to the youngest member of the party as a souvenir.—San Francisco Letter.

For over 400 years Nov. 18 was observed in England as a festival. It commemorated the death of Harlanau and the accession of Edward the Confessor, by which the country was delivered from the yoke of the Danes.
